

Reports on Transnet's Chief Executive MBA are untrue

We have noted untrue and disparaging reports that McKinsey assisted the Transnet Group Chief Executive Mr Siyabonga Gama with his MBA thesis.

These reports are misleading and untrue. Without being canvassed, Mr Sagar had offered a referral of an editor on work that Mr Siyabonga Gama was doing together with his study group.

The study group provided the research content and input and the editor assisted them with language and layout.

Any insinuation that McKinsey or Mr Sagar provided research input into their capstone project is designed to mislead and impugn the integrity of Mr Gama and his cohorts who provided the material. The editor who had been referred to them was credited.

We trust this statement puts the malicious gossip to rest.
